Dear Mr. Baumgarten,

I want to personally thank you for the efforts Donations for Haiti has made in contributing to our country. The supplies that your organization has brought to Port au Prince have made great strides in caring for the basic needs of our people. We are grateful and inspired by the collections that have gotten to the right people and distributed through our churches.

Together with Transform Haiti and the City of Atlanta we have committed to building a new educational facility as the start in bringing over one million homeless boys and girls towards the training they will need to help future generations grow to become leaders of our country.

Some successes have been won since the earthquake, however, as you know, educational materials and buildings have mostly been destroyed and the situation is still quite terrible.

It is time to make even bolder requests of the world community and so I am asking you to double your efforts.

Please do what you can to gather school supplies now, so that as our children sit down to study they have tools to win and grow.

Gratefully,

Jean-Yves Jason
